

Storytelling Workshops for Children

With Clare Muireann Murphy

The workshop will run for approximately two hours with a short 15 min break in the middle. The workshop will be a combination of theatre technique, storytelling games and performance. The aim of the workshop will be to provide a fun and creative atmosphere where the children and teacher can learn a little bit more about Irish stories, a little bit about St Patrick, and also have time to create their very own Irish tale.

These types of workshops develop confidence, self expression, creativity, public speaking, and imagination as well as being great fun. I ask that a teacher be present at all times for (and they are welcome to join in!)

Clare will be running a workshop at a local school on Friday 13th March.
